MANN'S

Parchment Copying Paper

This Parchment Paper is MUCH STRONGER, and shows a CLEARER COPY, than any other ever made for the purpose. The ink is LESS LIABLE TO SPREAD, and can be written upon with a pen.

DIRECTIONS FOR COPYING.

Place a piece of blotting-board under the leaf of Copying Paper: then, with a soft brush, wet the leaf. Brush in the surplus water with the hand: then place the written letter on the leaf, (leaving the blotting-paper under the leaf, to take up any excess of water that may yet remain,) place it in the Press, and in ten or fifteen seconds a perfect copy will be secured.

☞ The leaves WILL DRY AS SMOOTH AS SILK by placing the book in the Press after Copying.

☞ Place the oil sheets between the copies just made, to prevent blending or setting off.

The Mint does not exchange one kind of U S Silver coin for another.

The Mint purchases U S Silver Coins issued prior to 1853, defaced Coins issued since, & foreign Coins after their value has been ascertained by Mint assay, at the rate of 122 1/2 cents per ounce Troy, of standard fineness 9/10ths, or receives the same on deposit for coinage into whole dollars at a charge of 1/2 per cent for coinage. Upon a perusal of the correspondence between the Hon Jas Pollock (late Director of the Mint) and the U. S. Ex. Co: the Director finds that it has failed to elicit from U. S. Ex. Co: a direct, unequivocal answer the following questions:

First; The nett charge per $1000 for which the U. S. Ex. Co: will transport bullion from Topeka, Omaha and Fort Riley respectively, or from any other point at which the U. S. Ex. receives treasure from the Holladay Overland Ex Co. St. Louis, Mo: payable in coin?

Second; The distances in miles between the abovementioned points respectively over the route, or routes of the U. S. Ex. Co?

October 13th, I sent you a letter requesting that the Annual Estimate of Appropriation for the support of your Office for the Fiscal year ending June 30th 1867 might be furnished me at your earliest convenience. As yet, I have received no answer. This delay on your part, causes me delay in sending those already furnished by the Br. I would now ask that there be no further postponement of the matter, but that your Estimates, may be forwarded at once, so that I can transmit all to the Dept.

Sir,

Sir, I have read the suggestions contained in the letter of Mr J. J. Knox addressed to the Supt. & Treasurer of the Branch Mint at San Francisco. They are the rules which govern this Institution, allow me to say that there are no prospects whatever, as there will be no more appointments made at present, or applications received.

Your letter of the 23d inst, asking for information, as to your prospects of obtaining a position in this Dept, has been received.

The system of receipts referred to was inaugurated here in the month of July last and I have found it work satisfactorily of no service in this Institution.

In answer to yours of the 12th inst. would state that the one and two cent pieces are composed of a bronze alloy, 98 parts copper, 3 tin, 2 zinc, per 100. The cent weighs 48 grains; the 2 cent 96 grains or 4 dwts, or 1/5 troy ounce.

The three 3 cent pieces are composed of 25 parts nickel with 75 parts copper. The 3 cent weighs practically 32 grains; the law provides for 30, with an allowed deviation of 4, which is partly taken advantage of, because 30 makes the coin rather too thin. The 5 cent weighs 5 grammes or 77.16 grains.

The intrinsic value of all the above is uncertain, depending on the shifting price of the metals. It is of course much below the legal value. These coins are merely subsidiary, and derive their value from the Acts of Congress which legalize them.

I would say in reply that upon assuming the Directorship of this Institution my predecessor retired without giving me any information whatever relative to the mode of conducting the business of the Mint or placing me in possession of any laws or regulations governing the same.

It was the custom under the administration of the former Director to make payment on warrants to any one presenting them provided they were accompanied by bills receipted by the parties furnishing the goods.

When the collection of Mr Leigh's warrant by Mr McBride came to my knowledge I immediately issued an order to the disbursing officer of this Institution to make no payments except on warrants accompanied by bills, both being receipted by the parties to whom payment was due, or an authorized agent.

The Mint has never received any bars from the Br. Mint at Denver in which there was any material difference, either in fineness or weight—or that had been tampered with—The charges here on Denver Br Mint bars are ½ of one per cent for coinage & 5 cents per ounce for refining—

If you will send me your memorandum of the value of the bars you refer to, and the time the deposits were made, I will compare it with the books of the Mint and if possible discover where the discrepancy occurs—

Mint of the United States, Engraver's Dep.t Philad.a Nov. 30.th 1866

Dear Sir

The matter referred to me, in the letter of B. F. Stevens to the Secretary of the Treasury; is one of importance to the operations of the Mint.

My attention was called to the "Reducing Machine" to which it refers, about four years ago; from specimens sent to the Mint by the inventor, C. J. Hill of London; purporting to be produced by his machine, which were so much superior to any other machine reductions I had seen, as to create some doubt with regard to the accuracy of the representations of the process by which they were produced; and I was induced to open a correspondence with an artist friend residing then in London on whose judgement I could rely, to make further inquiries: his reply satisfied me of the value of the invention but Mr. Hill would not then agree to construct and furnish the machine, preferring to keep it in his own hands, and take orders for the work produced by it. He has since however, as I have learned; parted with his interest in the invention to the Messrs. Wyon; the parties referred to in the letter before me, and who it seems, now propose to furnish the machine.

The work produced by this machine, judging from the specimens before me is so far superior to that of our present machine (which was contrived in Paris many years ago:) or any other in existence of which I have knowledge: that I consider it exceedingly desirable the Mint should possess it; if it can be obtained on fair terms, and guaranteed to produce work equal to the specimens now submitted.

It is scarcely possible to overrate the value of such a machine in relation to the work required for the coinage, provided the Mint can have the entire and absolute control of its operations, without application by the patentee.

Very Respectfully
your most Ob.t Serv.t &c.

Sir

The main question, perhaps the which you have referred to me in the elaborate state recently received, is in these words: "I would be glad therefore if you would state the value in Peru Bolivian silver half dollars, as compared with our or silver currency, as that is not a legal tender for more than five dollars."

Now, while your whole narrative is and well digested, you must allow me to say that if, in the above paragraph, you had omitted the as compared with our gold or silver currency, you would have rendered it easier for me to reply. The very comparison, as shown in your statements, makes room for a variety of replies, and leaves the difficulty still unsettled. Why not take such a method as this.

The whole silver dollar, whether in Peru, or in Mexico, was substantially the same, and [illegible] our silver dollar. Have you not then a fair equitable precedent, in the settlement of the accounts of our [illegible] in Mexico, where the Mexican dollar is set down at 100 cents, although in fact the Mint return would show a difference.

The tendency of this remark is to endorse the view taken by you, that the settlement with Mr. Clay ought to be at the rate of 74 4/10 cents, which as you say is nearer the true value when comparing silver with silver, legal standard 416 4/11 cents per oz. std. I may remark that we make it nearer 74 5/10, valuing the Mexican half dollar at 0.432 ounce, 0.67 fine; but as these results are not very fixed, it is unnecessary to disturb the fraction you have set down.

If this view varies from that taken by the former Director of the Mint, it is simply because he felt himself bound to give the commercial or Mint value, as stated in his Annual Reports, & according to our basis of paying for silver deposits, which is always in half dollars & less, unless in special cases where the whole dollar is called for, when of course the reduced amount is paid.

There must be some basis for settling this long pending and complicated account, and I take the liberty of suggesting the propriety of taking the Mexican account as a fair & equitable precedent.

Our Assayer requests me to say, in reply to your letter concerning the Platinum Apparatus, that it is entirely unintelligible to him, without a more particular explanation. If such an apparatus has been employed in the London Mint it must have been since our last letter from the Assayer there, only a few weeks past. Any mode of assay which does not provide for a pouring off and changing of acids, may be very quick, but will not be very accurate. We do not use a sandbath; and we consider a glass stirrer an article that cannot be improved upon. The expression "corrects to approximate fineness" is something we cannot understand. All things considered, we may as well say at once, that our present process is so complete, accurate and rapid, that we do not wish to make a change, unless we can be convinced that some other is better.

Yours of the 12th inst. at hand. The platinum apparatus that would suit our work, should be made for sixteen carats at most (not less than fourteen) and we prefer a rectangular to a circular shape, if that will agree with the plan of the inventor. Our idea would be a pan or tray three inches wide by four inches long, or smaller if the worker considers it to be better. If it must be circular the diameter must not exceed three and a half inches. The maker will of course regulate the depth, so as to allow sufficient content of acid.

A suitable burner should be prepared and sent with the apparatus, and the whole should be packed and marked "for the U.S. Mint Philad.a, care of H. M. Rayner, N.Y." by which a permit can be obtained to pass through the Custom House duty free. Your explanations in regard to price are satisfactory. If the apparatus is found to answer a good purpose here, it will be recommended to other establishments connected with the Mint.

Sir

In reply to your communication of the 16th inst, I regret that the view taken in my letter to you of Dec. 22d last, has had no effect in bringing this matter to a solution. It appears to me, that to call for gold values in a question which belongs entirely to silver, in making the business still more complicated; and therefore to adopt the Mexican or Spanish dollar as the arbitrator, and make the same sort of settlement as was made with our Minister in Mexico would be taking a fair precedent.

Moreover your question as stated in your letter to the Secty of the Treasury of January 5th, as containing the gist of the whole matter, is in my opinion, one that can never be answered; namely what is the value at Lima, in U. S. Cents, of the Bolivian half-dollar. I change your phrase a little, in order to make a naked statement, and I am sure no man can answer that question.

However I proceed to comply with your request, to "give the gold value of the Bolivian Currency, as compared with gold as well as the silver in those cases just referred to."

per A. Lachelle Jr. Bolivian

The Bolivian doubloon taking it at 16 dollars, makes the gold dollar as compared with our dollar, 97.4 cents. (The doubloon mentioned has not been seen for many years) The Bolivian half dollar in which Mr. Clay was paid, has various values as compared with our silver, according as we take the whole dollar valuation of 116 4/10 cents, or the Commercial Mint value at 121 cents per ounce of nine tenths fine, or at 122 ± cents as we are paying now. All these results you are already familiar with as your letters show.

There is another question propounded — "whether silver bullion would be a legal tender under our present laws? I feel certain not.

Allow me also to correct an error although not an important one, when you say that "the relative value of gold and silver in Peru is sixteen to one"; referring of course to the old monetary system. This would be true if the legal or actual finess and weight of doubloon and dollar were the same but the legal finess of the doubloon was 21 carats or 875 thous the actual about 870; while of the whole dollar the legal was 902 7/9, the actual about 900.

In answer to yours of the 6th inst, would say that there are several works on American Coinage, but having lately been led into an error by one of them that ought to have been accurate, I advise you to take a different course to obtain the information you want, as well as other facts of interest to a coin-collector. And that is to write to Mr. Edward Cogan, Coin dealer, New York for an Austin Catalogue containing the most complete series of American Coins. I suppose you can get it for fifty cents to a dollar.

I will add that the coinage of cents began in 1792.

Sir —

In answer to yours of the 11th inst. would state that if it is simply intended for assay, a sample can be sent to us, with five dollars (currency) to pay the mint charge. It cannot be taken as a deposit, with a view to receive the proceeds, being apparently under the value of $100, and also unsuitable for minting operations.

There ought to be goldsmiths in Cincinnati able to extract the gold from the whole mass, if that is desired. If there is not, Mr. George Lee, 102 S. Second St. Philadelphia will no doubt attend to it.

think you will share in, to place either your establishment the Mint, upon the same basis of operations as a new office up in the Rocky or Nevada Mountains. It does not seem creditable the industrial skill and resources of our Atlantic border, to send to England or France to be parted. Nor does it seem that a national institution should be made a mere Convenience, whereby a private trader shall be able to save a cent or two on twenty dollars worth of gold; for this is really at the bottom of the matter at the same time, we are not to be disobliging, nor to the impediments in the way of Commerce.

On this point, if you think proper to throw in an agreement, I should like to hear whether you have anything to say And further whether the adoption of such a rule would not greatly reduce the work of your refinery; and whether you think this is desirable.

In regard to the statement from your Melter and Refiner, which reflects credit upon his Economy and integrity, I have to Express a doubt whether it places him, or rather your office, in that precise position of impartiality between the U.S. Treasury and the depositor which the law contemplates.

If the depositor pays the full parting charge, he is entitled to the full proceeds; which he does not get, if we allow him the silver up to 990 (of gold) and then retain the difference between that and Egypt. The former stopping place was fixed years ago partly as a safe average of fine bars, and partly with a view to retain some silver in the coin, to mit-gate the Coppery color, and to comply with the law on the subject of alloy. One of two things should therefore be done (not for the past but for the future) either to give the depositor all his partings [illegible] or else when the bars are to be coined, to [illegible] up to [illegible] and to send the difference to the [illegible] to be put into the Coin, as charged, [illegible] the [illegible] reports. We are all of the opinion here, that this [illegible] waste of silver. Gold Coins ought to have a gold color, without the transient effect of pickling; and this they have not [illegible] short some admixture of silver to combat the red [illegible] of copper.

Since the opening of the mines of [illegible] Nova Scotia, where the gold is of too high a [illegible] to bear parting, British Coins have re-assumed the beauty which they had lost by following the fashion of France. It would be well if we could oblige depositors to do [illegible] much towards making our coin of the right color.
Our Assayer gives good reasons for the opinion that a little silver improves the ductility also.
On the foregoing topic, generally, I shall be pleased to have any suggestions you may make

We have made large investigations in the subject of Jurisdiction of abrasion of coins (which is greatly overdated) and have had somewhat to do with plans for preventing it.

That there is a simple and inexpensive device which would effectually prevent coin from a very large percentage of its loss we are slow to believe; but still are open to conviction, and ready to make trial. March 8th

Sir—

I have to day received your letter authorizing me to transmit certain colonial coins as requested in the accompanying letter of Hon. S. R. Ruggles.

After conferring with officers of the Mint, I feel constrained to urge that this request may not be insisted upon, for the reasons following;

1st. The coins referred to, are for the most part very rare and difficult to procure, and to the American people are of the highest interest; while they are comparatively of little interest to persons abroad. Some of them in fact could not be replaced; and no insurance can save them from the dangers of two voyages across the Atlantic, not to speak of other mishaps. They constitute a very important part of the national museum in the Mint and are seen by many thousands of visitors.

2d. They were secured and placed in the Mint according to a law of Congress, which in its terms make it very doubtful whether they can be lawfully loaned out, or parted with. The act says "specimens of ores and coins to be reserved at the mint." I ask whether if they are taken out of the Mint, and especially if they should be lost, the law is not contravened.

3d. They would really add nothing to the force of Mr. Ruggles's argument in favor of unifying the coins of all nations. They are nearly all copper coins, and do not by any means represent the actual Colonial specie currency. That currency consisted of gold and silver coins of England, France, Portugal, Spain and Spanish America; and it is but a few years since the Spanish American Silver coins were as much in use here as our own coin.

Then again, what these few copper coins of the colonies (with about three varieties of silver) can do as a "visible illustration of diversity" and its bad effects, is vastly surpassed by the diversity which European Countries can show. Every German or Italian, or Swiss, can bear witness to that. They have only to look at home, to understand the evil of a multifarious currency; not confined to copper but extending to higher values.

4th. Mr. Ruggles presented this suggestion to us while attending Lately at the Annual dessert; but after taking note of the coins, and further consideration he gave as his opinion that there would be too much risk in taking them out of the Mint. I hope he will again return to that view of the matter, and that the Department will spare us the pain of despoiling our admirable collection for an object which does not seem adequate.

I submit these points to your consideration, and will cheerfully comply with your decision

March 11th

Sir — The above reference will also give you the best account of [illegible]

In answer to your inquiries addressed to Hon. John A. Peters M.C., and by him transmitted to me, I would state that the regular coinage of copper pieces began in 1793 — of silver in 1794 — and of gold in 1795.

We have printed tables of the issue of each denomination, but they do not exactly suit the purposes of coin collectors, because they refer to the issue of quantities, and not of pattern pieces: so that there are some dates out, that are nil in our tables. Such pieces, of course, are extremely rare, and command high prices. We have also found in several instances, that the table is in error, and we have been led by it into mis-statements, which we wish not to be betrayed into again.

The best course to take, is to write to some coin dealer who has ferreted out the whole matter, to send you an auction catalogue, or to give you what information he has. We would name (as most convenient to you) Mr George F. Seavey of Cambridgeport, Boston Mass., or Mr W. Eliot Woodward, of Roxbury

Boston

The Mint does not keep any of these coins on hand, except in its own collection.

March 30th

Sir

The vacancy in the Directorship of the Mint has occasioned some delay in replying to your letter.

An iron band, around a coin of gold or silver would of course afford some protection against wear. But the principal abrasion is not on the edge; it is on the two broad surfaces, and even if these be sunk below the rim, still they are exposed to the friction of the hand, and to other causes of waste.

But a number of still stronger objections to your scheme, so readily occur to any reflecting mind that I wonder they should have been overlooked. It does not seem necessary to dwell upon all of these when any one is conclusive. A rim of base metal would cut us off from some of the surest means of detecting a counterfeit. It would spoil the weight and the specific gravity; and it would afford just such a covering as is needed, by those who practice the most dangerous kind of deception, the filling in with platinum, between genuine disks of gold.

Another fatal objection is, that as all coins

(Except the small silver) are an article of commerce, they are constantly carried from one country to another, and as soon as they touch a foreign shore, are sent to the melting-pot, and the coining-press, to have new names and devices, and if the workmen had to be employed in first tearing off the old ones, it would cause much annoyance, and a serious additional Expense.

As to the Evil you propose to abate, by this Expedient, it is of much less account than you suppose. Even when specie circulates, it is very much shielded (Except the small silver) by the abundant use of paper money. And the fact just mentioned, that coins are constantly in course of being Exported and remelted, so that it is hard to find an old piece, may show you that they do not get much chance to wear away. An Eagle, or a half-dollar, having lost a cent or two perhaps, goes abroad, is taken by weight, re-coined, and after awhile comes back as a sovereign or guilder, is taken by weight, and comes out a new coin, with its legal weight maintained.

Everything that is to be used must wear; and it would be lamentable for trade and industry, for mines and for cotton mills, if there not so. All that we can aim at, is to make the abrasion moderate and slow; and this has been studied in the improved shapes and alloys of coins.

We have had other devices pressed upon us, for saving gold and silver. One invention proposed to harden the metals by mixing iron with them: certainly an idea more opposed to mettalurgy, than to put the iron outside.

I need hardly add, that the labor of thus banding the coins, would seriously add to the expense, even if buttons are cheaply made in that form: and I imagine that the very idea of a gold or silver coin in an iron hoop, would encounter a storm of popular satire or indignation.

In conclusion, I must inform you that the idea is not new, having been tried in England about 20 years ago, upon the silver penny and half penny with a copper rim. But it never was seriously entertained: at any rate, the experiment was enough.

Some U.S. pennies are very rare, they embrace mostly those of early coinage- from 1793 up to 1830- although there are many dates between the years mentioned that would not bring more than their nominal value. The proper way to do, would be to write to Mr. Edward Cogan- New York- for a catalogue of his latest sales of coins- by looking over it, you can find the selling value of any coin you desire. The only way to dispose of them would be by selling them at Auction, Or to some numismatist.

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 5th inst. enclosing impression of gold "twenty pesos" of Maximilian. We have seen but one of these coins, and that was coined expressly for a gentleman of Baltimore, who sent to the City of Mexico for it. Its weight was 521¼ grains or 1.086 ounce. Of course we could not assay it, but the weight precisely agrees with an adding-on to the doubloon, of one-fourth; so that we may be pretty sure its fineness does not exceed 875 thousandths, which would make the value $19.64. Without respect to Mint deduction for re-coinage.

The Maximilian Silver dollar (or pesos) is likely to be much less of a curiosity - Several thousand pieces were lately melted down at the New York Assay Office and the bars sent here for coinage. The average fineness was 902½ - Single specimens vary from #11 to 415 grains. The average Mint value may be stated at 105 5/10 Cents, as near as may be.

Sir,

I have your letter of Yesterday.

The act of January 1837 prescribes the limits of allowance for Wastage, in these terms: "The Melter & Refiners Waste shall not exceed two thousandths of the whole Amount of gold and silver that had been delivered to him. The Chief Coiner's waste is limited to two thousandths on Silver, and one and a half thousandths on gold."

But these limitations afford no guide to the actual wastage, which in fact is so variable, and so subject to contingencies, at many Mints, that there is no way of establishing a rule. Frequently it happens, in the adjustment of these accounts, that the deficit is remitted or nothing at all, or that there is even a slight over running - Actually, there must be a loss; but there are incidental minute gains or compensations, which have some effect in masking the Wastage, and rendering its ratio uncertain -

It would take too much time to explain these details, and I do not know that I can fairly be called upon to do it, except upon official requisition, for public uses.

Respectfully Yours,
H. B. Linderman

Dear Sir

Your favor of yesterday finds me confined to my room from a severe sprain of the right knee & leg, received in leaping from a wagon to escape a threatened accident at a Rail Road Station - I hope to be able to go to the Mint in a day or two.

I regret to say that it will be impossible to supply you with complete copies of the reports you refer to, except for the last twenty five or thirty years. While I was Director's Clerk I examined [illegible] and with much care all the records and papers of the Director's and Treasurer's Office from the organization of the Mint to establishment of Union to 1852 - During this investigation I selected all the Director's Reports that I could find in complete form, and subsequently had them bound. This volume I will loan you for such time as you may require it: and as far as we are able to supply copies we will do so - as soon as I am able to get up to the Mint.

Some of the earlier reports are very interesting and are useful even at this day to those entrusted with Mint affairs - The officers of the Mint in the earlier days of its history had many serious obstacles & difficulties to contend with but they were met with much ability - Dr Patterson was an able man and the first Director who reduced things to order and established a system and discipline in the institution to place the copper on the California Steamship which leaves New York to day — The Superintendent answered "too late to send by to days Steamer" — This necessarily delays shipment until May 1st prox. the next sailing day of the California Steamers.

It is not my intention to trouble you often with matters of this kind but I fear that the Br. It is proper that you should understand where to place the responsibility.

Sir,

The large Engine which drives all the rolling and cutting Machinery at the Mint, being found in a defective condition, it was deemed proper to employ Messrs. L. P. Morris Towne & Co. who originally constructed the Engine, to examine and test the same. A copy of their report enclosed herewith, contains the result of the Examination & test.

The daily Nickel Coinage is now about twice as much as the receipts of U. S. This, will bring us to near the

We can then run with the small engine, Machinery, appurtenant to Coin the Gold and Silver bullion, and while this is being done, suspend the Metal Coinage for two or three months, at which time, Messrs Morris Bowne & Co. think the large Engine can be overhauled and put in complete Repair. This plan will prevent the inconvenience which would result to the public, if we were to stop operations at this time, for the Repairs referred to.

Lessness on their part in Melting would be followed by dismissal from the Mint. April 18th 7

Hon. Thos. McCulloch much satisfaction to be able to report a Secretary of the Treasury, our operations. The daily coinage of the Nickel Cent Sir been more than doubled and the operations are going. On assuming the duties of the Direct Ship on the 6th inst. I found things working so badly in the Coining Department that I deemed it expedient to call to my aid the advice of several Experienced persons not connected with the Mint. I consulted Franklin Bale Lady Chief Coiling Mr. Sellers the distinguished Engineer Mr. Matthews, and Mr. Brown who originally experimented the effect of the Coining Presses. The results of this examinations were to find that the principal difficulty arose from the imperfect melting of the Nickel Alloy, which blunted get to be refractory and very destructive to the best made and perfectly adjusted machinery.
It was thought best to have each Coining Press in succession overhauled and repaired, and put in complete order.
This work has been in progress since, under the direction of Mr. Orr (Morgan Mr. Orr) and stringent orders were at once given for the proper care on the part of the Melter, and they were going to understand that any neglect or care-

I received to day a telegram from the Supt

of the Branch Mint at San Francisco in relation lessness on their part in Melting, would be followed by dismissal from the Mint.

It affords me much satisfaction to be able to report a decided improvement in our operations. The daily coinage of the Nickel pieces has been more than doubled, and the operations are going forward in a satisfactory manner.

I had intended during the week to have made a careful examination of the Engineers' Department, at which I think there is room for much improvement, but on Saturday afternoon, I had the misfortune to suffer a severe contusion, and sprain of the knee joint, from the effects of which I have since been confined to room. I have however, been in daily consultation with the operative officers of the Mint, and expect to be able to go there to morrow.

My attention was called, some days since, by the Treasurer of the Mint, to a contract made in January last, by the late Director for supplies of Nickel alloys under which he thought the Mint was paying a high price for the article. The subject has since been under examination, and when concluded the result will be reported to you.

I received to day, a telegram from the Supt

of the Branch Mint at San Francisco in relation to several articles ordered in July last, through the Director of the Mint, and required in the opening and separating operations of that Institution, and for which he had received no bills of lading, or advices of shipment.

It appears that only a portion of these supplies were forwarded, having been overlooked. I will cause to be forwarded immediately, the articles which were not sent at the time, and will see that no oversight of this kind occurs again.

At the close of the present month, I will make you a more extended Report, and asking that you will overlook the brevity of this one, am with great respect,

Your Most Obdt Svt.

This plan will prevent the inconvenience which would result to the public for want of the nickel coins for change, if we were to suspend operations now and [illegible] The main Engine of the Mint, which drives all the Rolling and cutting machinery, [illegible] found in a defective condition, I employed Messrs. J. P. Morris Powers & Co. of this City, who originally constructed the Engine to Examine and test the same.

A copy of their report of this date, stating the result of their Examination is herewith enclosed.

The daily amount of nickel coinage is now about twice as much as the receipts for the same time of U. S. Notes for exchange for the former, and if we can maintain the present rate of coinage, we will be able in the course of two months to coin and distribute an amount of the nickel, [illegible] sufficient for the wants of the public. This will carry us to near first of July, at which time the Mint will be in receipt of considerable deposits of Gold bullion from Montana and Idaho.

called on, in these times, to work up the precious metals. At the same time, there is a brisk demand at the South for the three and five cent pieces, in nickel-copper.

I therefore suggest, that it would be wise to employ the Branch in that way. Let me here say, that Dr M. F. Bonzano, whom you have placed in charge of that Mint and its Machinery, is well and favorably known to us, having been here repeatedly in former years. We regard him as a man of science, of metallurgic and mechanical skill, of personal integrity, and of business tact. He perhaps, can give the best idea as to how much and what kind of work they can execute, and I wish to write to him forthwith and make a number of inquiries.

In the meantime, as we have experience here in the melting, alloying, and especially the assaying of Nickel compounds (more tedious and critical, in some respects, than the assay of more valuable metals) I would suggest, that we make for them the ingots, of the shape ready for the rolls, and of the right mixture; in a word, relieve them of the melting and assay. They can then go on and laminate, cut out, pickle, anneal, and coin, the three and five cent pieces. The profits therefrom, will more than pay their expenses.

At the same time, the Branch should be competent to meet the calls of an Assay Office, as some gold and silver might offer; and I believe Dr Bonzano is competent to perform such assays. They could issue stamped bars, if desired.

I further suggest that there be only two Officers. Dr Bonzano, to act as superintendent, and assayer and the other Officer as Treasurer, Melter and Coiner. Probably six to ten Workmen would suffice, and as some of these should be experienced, I could supply them from this Mint, in all probability.

I now ask leave to defer the further discussion of this matter, until I can hear from Dr Bonzano.

April 26th 67.

Sir.

In a recent communication to the Department I remarked that the Treasurer of the Mint had called my attention to a Contract made by the late Director with Joseph Wharton of this City, for supplies of Nickel for the Cents Coinage, at a rate which he thought disadvantageous to the Government, in view of the present low price of Nickel.

In order that you may fully understand the case, I enclose a copy of the Contract alluded to, and a Communication from Prof. Booth, Melter & Refiner of the Mint, presenting the reasons which induced the Director to make the Contract.

By reference to the Contract it will be seen that Mr. Wharton has the privilege of supplying the Mint with Nickel, in the form of an alloy of ¾ Nickel and ¼ Copper, at the quantitative rate of 4000 lbs. per week for four months from January 8th 1867, and of 3000 lbs per week for two months thereafter, and at the Monetary rate of $1.43 Gold per pound of pure Nickel, and of the relative price copper.

The price stipulated in the contract is about three cents per pound above the then ruling market rate.

The present price of commercial Nickel (say of 96 % purity) is about $1.27/100 Gold per pound, which is equal to $1.32 (Gold) of absolutely pure Nickel, as determined by the Mint Assay. The remaining 4 a 5 % of commercial Nickel consists of sand, lime and a trace of iron. The latter is rather detrimental to the quality of the alloy to be made.

I have been informed that some five thousand pounds (1000) of our Nickel above the quantity contracted for, but at contract prices, were purchased of Mr Wharton, a few days before I assumed the duties of the Overdowship — although the pressing demand for the five cents coin, warranted the purchase of Nickel beyond the amount called for by the Contract, yet in view of the much lower rate at which other good Nickel is now offered, I feel myself justified in refusing to consummate the last purchase, unless the price be measurably reduced to the rate ruling at the time of purchase, which was some $1.33 (Gold) per lb. pure Nickel.

The Treasurer also raises the point that believes that the Government should give him as much encouragement as possible. I think this that Director Ashford [illegible] right to [illegible] the contract. The provisions of law [illegible] will be found in Sec. 5. of the act of February 21, 1857. The construction given this section, when purchases of materials were first made under its provisions, was that it authorized the payment therefor, by the Treasurer out of the Bullion Fund of the Mint, and that it was not intended to devolve the purchases of such materials on that officer. Under this construction of the law purchases have since been made by the Director, on the recommendation of the Melter & Refiner after assay of samples.

Mr. Wharton is one of our most enterprising citizens, and the only Nickel Refiner I am informed in the United States. Having invested heavily in this new branch of industry, he believes that the Government should give him as much encouragement as possible. I think this not increasable provided always that it is done subordinate to the public interests, and the alloy supplied at the ruling market rate.

The Melter & Refiner of Admiral that the alloy prepared by Mr Wharton is superior for coinage purposes to the alloy made from English or Continental Nickel. On this point I am not now prepared to express an opinion. I have ordered a small lot of Evans & Askins Nickel, also of "Vivians", and will invite a fair trial of the same to be made at the Mint, with a view to determine whether there is any material difference in favor of the Wharton alloy of the Can.

It is proper to add that that the difference in the currency price of the Nickel supplied under the contract and the ruling market rate at this time is about fourteen cents per pound.

Most entirely yours I am very Respectfully,
Only Nickel Ref. Your Obt. Servant,
in the United States H. B. Linderman heard in this new branch Director.

April 10th 7

Dr. H. R. Linderman

Director U. S. Mint

Dear Sir,

In reply to your query in relation to the contract made by the late Director with Mr. Joseph Wharton for the supply of Nickel, I beg to state that inquiries made early in January 1867, showed the following monetary rates for Commercial nickel:

Evans & Askins' Refined Nickel, averaging 95% @ 96% pure nickel, @ $1.34 @ $1.36 (gold) per lb.

Vivian's Refined Nickel, of about the same quality, offered at $1.34 @ $1.35 (gold) per pound.

The German house of Fleitman offered their highly refined nickel (98 @ 99% pure) @ $1.40 gold.

These prices bur, at the rate of $1.41 (gold) for the two former, & $1.43 (gold) for the latter, for each pound of absolutely pure nickel, it was deemed advisable to take the price of the best quality as the standard viz. $1.43 (gold) per. lb. of pure nickel.

As the price of Commercial Nickel had not materially fluctuated in many years, it was deemed both safe and expedient to contract with Mr Wharton for some months in advance, & at a quantitative rate, rather below that which the then current demand seemed to warrant.

Hence the contract for the 4000 and 3000 lbs. weekly of an alloy of nickel, & also the more recent purchase of some 5500 lbs. to supply the deficiency of the Contract.

Correlative with your inquiry relating to the past is the question of our future supply of nickel; on which I may be allowed to remark that the following reasons, influencing our purchase from Mr Wharton heretofore, should have their influence hereafter, other things, prices, quality, &c. being regarded at the same time. It even appears to me that these reasons are of sufficient weight to authorise our giving a slightly advanced price to Mr Wharton over others.

1. By having a refining establishment at home, and knowing its resources of ore, means, &c we know better how far we can rely upon a steady supply, & about at what quantitative rates.

2. The party supplying being near us, we can the more readily recover or exchange, if a lot of nickel should prove defective or unfit for our coinage.

3. Because Mr Wharton is associated with Mr Fleitman, the best nickel Refiner in the world, & employs his methods, we have the best guarantee of quality, which is of the utmost consequence in the preparation of the cent alloy.

4. Because the Home Refinery prevents our being subject to the caprices or combinations of foreign refiners, - a fact known in the history of Nickel Refining.

5. Because, without making any sacrifice of the Public Interests, we encourage the development of our mineral wealth, & by passing the nickel through the various manufacturing processes from the ore to the finished product, we distribute its whole value at home instead of abroad.

6. Because it appears to me more congruous with our proper national pride, that the coinage of our Government, where practicable, should consist of our own productions.

Very truly yours
Jas. C. Bowman

This agreement made this day between Wm Millward Director of the U S Mint, of the one part and Joseph Wharton, of the firm of Wharton and Fleitman of the other part, Witnesseth, that the said Joseph Wharton agrees to deliver to the U S Mint an alloy of Nickel & Copper containing approximately three fourth Nickel and one fourth Copper, at the rate of about 3.000 lbs per week, for the next six months from date, and that the said Wm Millward agrees to pay for the said alloy at the rate of $1.43/100 in gold per lb of absolutely pure nickel, to be determined by the Assayer of the Mint, and for the balance of the alloy at the ruling Market price for Copper. And it is further agreed between the said parties that the alloy shall be paid for in U S Legal tenders, and that the price of gold shall be determined for each Calender Month at the rate ruling at noon on the first Business business day after the 11th, and that the price of Copper shall be at the quoted rate of Detroit Smelted Copper in the issue of the New York Price Current nearest before the 12th of each month, provided that the quality of the alloy delivered shall be subject to the approval of the Melter & Refiner and provided further that any change in the Tariff by Congress affecting the alloy shall determine a corresponding change in the price of the alloy. It is further agreed between said parties, that the said Co. may deliver at the rate of 4000 lbs per week during the next four months

April 24

Sir

I shall the satisfaction of being able to reply fully & promptly to your inquiries respecting the Hill Engraving Machine.

A friendly correspondence which has long been maintained between the Assay Department of the Royal Mint in London, and the U S Mint brought to us early in 1862, an offer to sell this machine, or to have work executed by it.

At our request Mr Hill wrote out a description of his machine or rather of what it could do. A copy of his letter (about 5 pages of letter paper) will be sent to you if desired. His offer was to supply the machinery for 1450 guineas, and to come over and give it a fair start, his expenses and 20 guineas a month to be paid for a short time.

I consider it more important just now to copy what was said of the man and the machine by Mr Field (Queen's Assayer) at the same time. He is employed by nearly every Engraver in London, who take the credit of his work, he being otherwise unknown. xxx His work does not require being touched by a graver; all he requires, and which he generally makes, is a large model. I may state he copied the mediaval head of the Queen, on the crown piece - it is only a Cabinet piece, fetching 15 to 25 shillings each. His enlarged copy was so good as to deceive the Engraver who helped make it, & from that he made a series of dies from a silver penny to a half Crown, merely as specimens. I believe the machine has never been seen by any eye but his own."

The offer came at a time when we were in the midst of an expensive and absorbing war, and when the Mint had little to do; although we felt it desirable to be prepared to execute medals for Military and other services, rapidly and economically economically. This we could not ask for such an appropriation at such a time.

A letter from Mr Field in Nov 1865 informed us that the inventor, who was quite disappointed at our declining to purchase, had sold the invention to an Englishman who no doubt will make an excellent profit by it.

A letter of Oct 1866, makes some further mention of this sale, and of the buyers intention to bring it to the notice of our Government; and adds "he sent me some excellent specimen for postage Stamps". And again - I am vexed you did not buy it - it would served our people right" referring to the fact that the British Government had an offer of it, but could not come to terms. As these expressions are from private letters, I trust they will be kept simply for the information of the Department. Nor shall the strong conviction of a competent and impartial witness.

The letter of our Engraver, of Nov 30. &, a copy of which you enclose, shows the appreciation of one whose judgment in such a matter is worthy of the highest confidence.

It would be very desirable for the Mint to have such an apparatus; and as a safe-guard against counterfeiting or improper copying, to have the patent also. although this latter might be dispensed with, as counterfeiters would care to go to such an expense. You will observe, however, that the price is cut down from 1450 guineas, to £750, or about one half.

With such a machine the price for medal dies would be wonderfully reduced. And a change of device on our regular Coinage, would be a much less serious matter than where all the work must be done by the mind and hand of a first class artist.

In regard to our means for buying it, we called add to the undrawn appropriation referred to in your letter a sufficient

-ficient amount from our Medal Fund to make the purchase.

I herewith return the papers marked for that purpose.

April 29 /.

Sir:

I feel it my duty to ask your attention to two point of importance, in relation to the minor coinage.

Before the war, the redundancy of cents had become burdensome. They were packed in rolls to make larger payment than they were intended for; and it was a constant study for dealers and Housekeepers to keep from being flooded with them. During the war, a popular delusion in regard to their intrinsic value, caused them to become scarce. But the former evil is returning upon us; and with three million, six Hundred fifty two thousand, seven hundred & thirty dollars ($3.652.730) in cents, and two cents, but mostly in cents, up to March 31st last, it becomes a question whether we ought not to protect the public from the loss and annoyance incident to an excessive issue. There are now twenty cents out for each man, woman and child in the States where those pieces circulate.

It strikes me that we have an excellent remedy at hand, if the Department considers itself authorized to employ it.

The larger proportion of this recent coinage, namely a little over two millions of dollars, is in pieces containing 12 per cent nickel. Under the laws for the coinage of three and five cent pieces, the Mint is a large purchaser of nickel. There is an active demand for those coins the paper notes of corresponding denomination be withdrawn. Now we have only to offer to buy those nickel cents at their nominal value, and pay for them in three and five cent pieces, and the reform will begin, and in due time be carried out. If at the same time, or a future time we have to go on with a moderate coinage of bronze cents and two cents it will be all well enough; we shall be saving the confusion of having two kinds of cents, different in shape and appearance.

It is true that the Act of April 22d 1864 disallows the further exchange of cents and half cent; but this I apprehend referred to the old large copper coinage, and to the exchange of one cent for another. This I do not propose. And certainly, if we have to buy nickel, we may as well buy it in the nickel cent; and we can pay for it on terms agreeable to both parties as indicated above.

Still, if you think the case requires further legislation, I respectfully ask leave to prepare an Act to be submitted to Congress through the Department.

You will, of course wish to know how the account of Profit & Loss would stand. I answer, two nickel cents contain about nickel enough to make a five cent piece; and leave a surplus of 70 grains or 1/100 th of copper worth 1/4 cent. In short we would gain 3 1/4 cents in nickel and copper on every five cent piece. The present gain is greater, namely 4 1/4 cent; the materials for the 5 ¢ costing us 3/4 of a cent, as near as may be. But as the main object of a Mint is to supply coin for the people, and not to make money for the Treasury, this difference I am sure will not affect your decision.

The account would stand more favorable as to the three cent piece, but I need not enlarge.

It is only needful to add, that as the three cent and five cent contain about double the proportion of nickel to that in the nickel cent, we should still have to be purchasers of that metal to bring up the ratio; and this fact should quiet the complaints of those who have nickel to sell, although our part in the market will be, as it ought to be, cut down to about one half. We have already nearly 124 tons of nickel, contained in those cents only.

I need not remind you that the law of May 16th 1866 makes the five cent piece redeemable in sums not less than $100 in U S legal currency, under regulations of the Secretary of the Treasury. The time may come, when an excessive issue of these pieces, or a desire to return to silver will call for this redemption in view of which it would seem proper to have a fund ready to meet it.

and I suggest, that by taking the profits arising from that coinage, investing them in bonds of the United States, and setting these apart, the object will be gained without causing any strain upon the Treasury, and without any inconvenience. If the pieces should remain out forever, so much the better. If not, the redemption will be provided for. This matter could be attended to, by the Asst Treasurer here, as the nearest and most convenient to the Mint.

In suggesting that a fund be provided for the redemption of the 3ct Coin, I am perhaps travelling out of the line of my official province, but, I deem the subject of sufficient importance to warrant my calling your attention to it.

I have the honor to remain

Sir:

Under an authorization of the Secy of [illegible] hereby agree to purchase one of the Hill Engraving Machine at the price named by you - Seven hundred & fifty pounds Sterling -

The merits of this Machine were brought to the notice of the Mint, incidentally, in a letter of H W Field Esq Queens Assayer in the Royal Mint, about five years ago: but we were not then in a position to bargain for it.

I understand from your letter that we can have a machine which was begun for Calcutta, and is nearly finished. This would shorten the delay and be very agreeable.

As soon as the Machine is ready to be shipped you will please advise me of that fact and a Bill of Exchange for the amount will be forwarded, and if on the faith of this Government you will forward the Machine as soon as it is ready it will be a saving of time.

I wish to know whether it can be worked by an experienced Engraver simply by written directions or whether it is essential to have the presence of the inventor, or some one taught by him, to give it a fair start.

Before the Machine is shipped, I would be very glad if it could be seen by our friend Mr Field and that he might see how it works, you will please make an appointment with him to suit his leisure, we will write to him on the subject. You will let me know when and by what vessel the Machine has been sent, so that I may be ready to procure its pass through our Custom House duty free.

I will thank you also to effect a marine insurance on the full value, and charge me with the cost unless it be forwarded by an Express Company which takes all liability

As a step preparatory to regulation in the matter of pattern Coins, I have to request that you will furnish me, at your convenience, with a list of all the dies extant and in good order, which have been used for striking pattern ones. And further, that you will classify them thus:

1. Dies which can be of no further use.
2. Dies which might be used for future new patterns, either obverse or reverse, or for regular Coinage.

I have yours of 4th inst-

I have no disposition or desire to compel or induce your Company to go out of their way to transport bullion from Denver here, but, I do want it transported as cheaply as possible and direct from Denver to Philadelphia - not via New York -

Having originated this Coin Certificate plan while I was Director Clerk, and believing it will do much towards building up the great bullion interest of the gold region, and at the same time benefit the National Treasury, I naturally feel anxious that it should have a fair trial But I will not let the interests of any Company interpose between me & the duty I owe the public service in the premises - All I ask is that responsible Express Companies shall have an opportunity to compete for the Contract & let then bids are received the one most favor-able to the Government will be accepted.

The discrepancy of $20.000 in the account of the Coiner & Treasurer, appears from the correspondence on file in this office, to have been a defalcation of the Treasurers Pay Clerk. As this occurred more than a year ago, I suppose it has been thoroughly investigated by the proper authority, and that the loss will be made good by the Treasurer or his sureties. Sir.

I have received a report from Dr Bonzano, formerly Melter & Refiner of the Branch Mint at New Orleans, in relation to the condition of the Machinery and apparatus of that Institution.

It will not be expedient to coin either gold or Silver, at the above named Branch of the Mint, at the present nor for some time to come.

Two Presses for the Coinage of 5 cent Nickel Copper can be readily fitted up at an expense not exceeding $3.000. With these Presses from five to ten thousand dollars per week can be struck. The planchets complete and ready for stamping will have to be sent from this Mint as in the present condition of the machinery and apparatus at the Branch, neither Assaying, Rolling of ingots, cutting, annealing, or melting, are practicable. About five men will be required to work the two Presses. Dr Bonzano can act as Superintendent, Melter & Refiner, and The Assistant Treasurer at New Orleans, can act as Treasurer. Coiner. No Assayer will be required for the present.

The compensation to be allowed Dr Bonzano and say five workmen may be defrayed out of the profit profits arising from the five cent coinage. After the coinage of five cent Nickel-Copper, as herein proposed, is well under way, it will be time enough to prepare for further operations, and the Assay of gold and Silver.

In former years the most of the Silver Bullion and foreign Silver coin deposited at the Branch Mint was derived from Mexico, and it is not probable that any considerable amount of Silver for Assay or Coinage will be received until Peace and order are restored in that distracted Country. We may then expect a revival of trade between that Republic and our own and the receipt at New Orleans, as in former years, of large amounts of Silver. Facilities for the Coinage of Silver will then be required at the New Orleans Branch.

If the plan I have suggested for the Coinage of five cent Nickel-Copper pieces is approved by the Department I will prepare the proper instructions to carry the same into effect and submit them for your consideration.

Incidental & Contingent Expenses — Such is the practice at the U. S. Assy. Office New York, and I am of opinion that it should be applied to the Branch

May 14. 7.

Hon Hugh McCulloch
Secretary of the Treasury.

Sir,

The Deductions for "parting" and "refining", at the Branch Mint, San Francisco, (available by law for Mint Expenses) are deposited monthly in Gold Coin, with the Asst. Treasurer of the U. States, to the credit of the appropriation for Incidental & Contingent Expenses of the Branch Mint. The Superintendents Requisitions thereon, are I believe, met with Drafts payable in Currency, in which funds the Expenses for materials used in the operations above referred to, are paid.

It would seem proper that the Gold Coin arising from deductions for "parting" and "refining" should be sold, and the proceeds deposited (in currency) with the Asst. Treasurer of the U. States to the credit of the Branch Mint appropriation for Incidental & contingent Expenses – such as the practice at the U. S. Assay Office, New York, and I am of opinion that it should be appended to the Branch

Hon Hugh McCulloch.
Secretary of the Treasury.

Sir.

I have your letter of the 14th inst. enclosing design of a Seal for the Freedmans Bureau, and requesting a Seal to be made in the best styles of art.

In regard to the design allow me to suggest, that the placing of stars on the chief of the shield (although frequently done) is not in accordance with the true heraldry of our National arms. The stars are appropriate to the crest, but not on the shield. Otherwise I think the design very appropriate to the object for which it is intended.

The changes in the design indicated in Your letter will be made.

To do justice to this design (which is more elaborate and artistic than is usually required for seals) in the Engraving, demands highest skill in the department of art to which it belongs.

This seal can be prepared in the Engraving Department of the Mint, but not without some delay in consequence of the large number of dies required for the foreign coinage.

The most skilful artist in this Country to execute a seal like the one you desire, is Mr A. B. Paquet, formerly an Assistant in our Die department who left the Mint a few years ago, because he could do better pecuniarily at private work. He offers to Engrave the seal for $300 — The seal will require the attachment of a press worth $75 — more — I think these prices reasonable —

Mr Paquet will undertake to Engrave the seal in Six Weeks from the 1st June proximo.

Sir:

I have been for some days past in correspondence with all the responsible Express Companies in relation to the transportation of Gold Bullion from the Branch Mint at Denver to the Mint at Philadelphia, and have received propositions at rates as follows:

From Wells Fargo & Co $11.50 per $1.000 payable in gold

" U. S. Express Co $11.50 " " " " "

" U. S. Express Co from Denver to St Louis via Smoky Hill route $10.50

" Adams Express Co from St Louis to Philad $2.50 per thousand payable in gold and Philad to New York fifty cents per thousand

The offer of Wells Fargo & Co also of U. S. Express Co is quite exorbitant and the rate very reasonable, and I should accept one or the other and forward Contract for your approval but the Adams Express Company - in that they have the right, under their Contract with the Department to receive this Bullion at St Louis - This being the case I deem it proper to submit the several bids for your consideration

The Regulations authorizing the issue of Coin Drafts on N Y Assist Treas urer for the nett value of gold Bullion deposited at the Mint Denver, were approved by you on the 20th of February 1856, and efforts were made by the Director (Mr Pollock) to arrange for transportation from Denver to the Mint. The same claim was then made by the Adams Express Company and the subject was dropped. The lowest rate offered at that time was $14 per 1.000. The offers at this time are much more favorable and the question should now be decided.

As the season of the year for an increase in the production of gold in Colorado and Montana, and its transmission East is close at hand, the Regulations for the issue of Drafts at Denver Mint should be put in operation without delay.

As a matter of information I deem it proper to state that the private advices from Montana give assurance of a large increase in the production of gold during the present year. It will be a great convenience for the producers of Bullion in that distant region to be able to receive Coin Drafts therefor at Denver. From that point to the Mint the Bullion can be safely transported by Express.

Sir.

I have received your letter of the 17th inst. enclosing a communication from Messrs Buchanan & Dengell, in relation to exchange of the old copper cent.

By the act of April 22. 1864 the Mint is no longer allowed to receive the old copper cent in exchange. As old copper they are worth about half a cent, as currency

It may be proper to add what will soon be made public but is premature just now, that to reduce the superfluity and variety of cents, as also to obtain a supply of nickel-copper alloy of character suitable for coinage, we are authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury, to buy the Nickel-copper cents of 1857 & 1864, and pay for them in three and five cent pieces

At present we are not able to fix the terms, and I merely hint this for your own information.

Very Respectfully,

Robt B Swain Esq
Supt U.S. Mint. San Francisco Cal

Sir:

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 22d ult. Please accept my thanks for the kind and complimentary manner in which you refer to my appointment to the Directorship of the Mint, and permit me to add that I shall leave nothing undone to bring the Mint and Branches to the highest efficiency.

As you are in possession of all the facts in relation to reducing the charge for parting, at your Branch, you are best able to form a correct opinion on the subject. On general principles I favor the reduction, and I think you would do well to exercise the discretion given you by the Secretary of the Treasury. It should not in any event exceed the actual cost of the materials and labor employed in the operation.

In connection with this subject, it is proper for me to state that a few days since I suggested to the Secretary of the Treasury, the propriety of selling the gold and silver Coin arising from the parting, refining, and bar charges, and passing the proceeds in U S Currency to the Credit of your Incidental & Contingent appropriation. I think this but just to your Institution. The decision of the Department has not yet been received.

In view of the vast importance to our Country, its finances & Commerce, of the Gold and Silver Mining interests, of the hazards to Capital invested in the same, and the toils and privations of those engaged in Mining, it appears to me that as few and as light charges as possible should be imposed on the bullion when deposited for Coinage

The abolishment of parting and refining at the Mints does not appear to me to be desirable or expedient. The bullion interests of the country would soon be placed at the mercy of combi-nations of Capital, and we would soon be in receipt of Bullion unfit for Coinage, and this would occur when the facilities now existing in the Mint & Branches had been taken from them-

I would thank you to be in order that we may know that you have received the same, or be able to sup-ply triplicate in case of miscarriage

Dear Sir:

I received a few days ago an unofficial letter from Geo^r Dunning Esq, Supt U S Assay Office, New York, stating that he had asked leave of absence for four months & solicited the appointment of a special agency to visit Colorado, Montana, & Idaho, in that capacity - Mr Dunning requests me, in the letter referred to, to say a kind word for him -

Mr Dunning entered the Mint service many years ago, and since then his time and talents have been faithfully applied in the performance of his duties - He is a Gentleman of fine intelligence and well deserves any recognition the Department may be able to give him -

If the Department has any special business to be attended to in the Territories referred to above, it could not be confided to more com[illegible] or worthy hands.

I am in receipt of yours of 23d inst. I would state in reply, that the deposit in question was received on the 11th inst. from the Agent of Kinsley & Co's Express: it was opened and weighed in his presence. The weight before melting was 57.62 oz. After Melting 54.34 oz.

The unofficial paper referred to in yours is a mere matter of memorandum which is given to all depositors. I enclose you a duplicate.

The party from whom a deposit of bullion is rece[illegible] is the only one that can be recognised as the depositor, and it is the rule of the Mint that any deposit must be opened & weighed in his or her presence.

I enclose a communication on the subject from the agent of K[illegible] Express Co.

Sir:

I am in receipt of yours of 25th inst.

The demand for the 5¢ coin is so great that we are some weeks behind in filling orders.

After the cents are taken from the Mint, they can not be received again; as there is no provision in the law for the re-emption of the cent coinage.

Sir:

Your letter of 29th inst has been received.

The silver peso of Peru, 1866 which I believe bears the new name of Sol, is worth here 95.5 cents, payable in silver coins less than the dollar.

The gold piece of 20 soles, of Peru, is worth $19.22, without regard to charges for recoinage. This makes 96.1 cents to the gold sol, payable in gold coin. If the half per cent mint charge, and the half per cent tax, are to be allowed for in the adjustment, then of course the net value is 95.1.

The question, "what is the value of the silver Sol, as compared with our gold dollar," cannot be answered. Gold and silver have no fixed relation in our present coinage laws, and their relative value is left open to the fluctuations of commerce.

The question of the settlement of the accounts of our foreign ministers, especially in S. America, has repeatedly been referred to us. It is always embarrassed by the difficult just just referred to. If it were proper for me to offer an opinion, I would say that these payments could be made on a more equal plan than that which was laid down by Secretary Guthrie. It would be, to pay bills of exchange on London, equal to the amounts due, and to let the Ministers do the best they can with those bills. I suggest sterling exchange, because it is the currency of the world; whereas our exchange is not known, in many countries
